

Database Developer

Ideal Skill Set:

- Oracle and/or Sybase experience
- DB optimization
- Implementation and runtime optimization for heavy duty systems in the financial industry

Careers

b-next is a great place to work. We are a stable company celebrating 20 years of technological innovation. We are hard working on making b-next an international company. With our partner Thomson Reuters (www.Thomsonreuters.com) we are building the Capital Markets Compliance system of the future.

Join us as we move into an even better future.

Employment is a lot like sport. Getting to the top takes plenty of hard work and the right mindset. If you want to join us, you will need to be a team player with the ability to raise the level of your game time and again. Only by pulling out the stops will you win your clients' favour. This is why brains alone are not enough - they need to be coupled with backbone to stay the course. As for the rest, you will learn by doing. It may not be easy. But as one of the team, we will do all we can to help you rise through the ranks.

Intellect Not Ego

b-next types live and breathe our company principles. This means always putting shared project goals first - not your ego. We set great store in conceptual thinking and the ability to execute ideas, along with the power to make a compelling case to our clients. Add these strengths to your first-class education, will to succeed, and team spirit - and you have a foot in the door at b-next!

Ambitious Applicants

Ideally, you are a software professional with considerable sector experience. Or perhaps you are a project manager who has accumulated vast industry and consulting expertise and wishes to grow further. New graduates determined to succeed, or those changing career direction who have gained work experience in fields such as the banking or finance sectors, are also welcome to apply. If you are making your first foray into the working world, we invite you to gain experience with us as an intern.

Where Talent can Take Off

Admittedly, meeting our expectations is a tall order and few make the cut. But if you are not one to shy away from challenge, then we look forward to hearing from you. Exceptional individuals are always welcome at b-next, regardless of vacancies advertised. At present, we are on the lookout for software engineers and software consultants to bolster our teams in Germany and UK. What's more, internships are on offer throughout the year as a way to get a feel for our business in Germany and abroad.

The Direct Route

You are talented, dedicated - and now very curious? Then send us your application! Aside from taking the traditional route, you are welcome to apply online. If you need further information on any issues before applying, we are happy to provide additional facts and answer any questions you may have.

Contact:

Martina Boeckstiegel
+49-5221-992800
application@b-next.com